From the Grand Knight, Rick Broderick

Here we go again; what a ride! Hold on Fall Festival was a great success for the Knights and Thanksgiving and Christmas are right around the corner. I've said it before but what a great Council and can you imagine all we have done and all we can do! Our Corp Communion and Knights Night out were major successes as we for the first time used both the right and left front three rows and filled them up!

There were over 80 Knights and family and almost 50 at Crowne Plaza for dinner. We also had a family Mass and Public Rosary that our Council lead and I think made the difference. We had all three parish priests involved with Fr. Joe Bui taking a leadership role and really making this event special. I am so honored to be a part of this organization based on everyone's willingness to participate.

Fall Festival: what can we say but great work to the almost 100 Knights, (and this is just brother Knights with families we had well over 200 helping!) lead by Bob MacDonald (Festival Chair), Pat Cass (Food Chair), Hank Kornmeyer Fish Booth Co-Chair, Na-

Co-Chair) and Mike Foley (Hearts Out for Haiti); all taking a leadership role at the Festival. I know many others were very involved but I wanted to give special notice to the leads - yes we had at least 11 leadership roles. I also wanted to especially thank one other brother; Bill Drescher. Bill really stepped back into our Council at the Festival and made me especially grateful for or stable of 'long term' members. He needs to be careful with lifting (two herniated discs) but still contributed with an attitude that is just unbelievable! Guys we may be the manpower of the parish but isn't that what true brotherhood is all about - service!

All for one in service to God!

Blue Mass and Parish breakfast; OK so we wanted to do a breakfast well we get two shots in a row. We need help to really make these good, please

Thoughts from the Deputy Grand Knight, Bill Orosz

You don't have a soul ...

This statement certainly gets your attention, and it should! The entire quote from C.S. Lewis is "You don't have a soul. You are a Soul. You have a body." I was reviewing a series of old notes that I have when I came upon this quotable quote from Clive Staples (C.S.) Lewis, the famous novelist, lay theologian, and Christian apologist. He was born and baptized into the Church of Ireland (Anglican Church in Ireland), however, he became an atheist at the age of 15 and remained so for 18 years. He was greatly influenced by J.R.R. Tolkien, G.K. Chesterton, and Hugo Dyson and became a convert to the Anglican Church. His work reflects a very traditional, high-church Anglican theology, including Roman Catholic teaching on purgatory and sin. His most famous the-

Family of the Month

The MacDonald family earned this award hands down. Accepting the award at our meeting (recess was taken) were Bob and JoJo with their wonderful children: Maddie, Sydney, Brendan and Robbie. The four kids were given an honorary Knight badge and coupon for a dinner during our Lenten Fish Dinners. Bob you and JoJo are really special and God sent - thanks for all you do!

Knight of the Month

Your Grand Knight and fellow officers struggled once again with who should win this award but after much thought and reflection it was decided that the entire Council earned this honor as we all did more than anyone thought possible and clearly more than any individual could have made happen. The Grand Knight thanked all member's and asked them to turn to one another and say a special thanks for this past month's 'good works'. Mary and her Knights Team beyond compare!

come, work, enjoy and bond! Jesus will be there!

Bill Orosz has some planning issues he'll discuss in his comments as well as Jeff Dal-lape and they really are great Officers for this Council and for me - thanks!!!! Wow Christmas Trees will be here soon and I think Dr. Mike MacKay has this well under control and I understand he's working with an understudy (more on that later). Ascension will help us this year as they want to get this going at their parish and thought the best way to 'get educated' is to work with the experts. That means a lot to us as they are offering help so they don't jump into something blindly - we are bringing UNITY to our Councils!!! Let's go make it happen!!!

Once again I want to thank all officers for their continued efforts to make meetings and contribute. This is your Council to grow and lead and make even better - it's up to each of you to make this happen!

OK now let me brag about our Family of the Month: The MacDonald Family. This family is just wonderful! They made the Fall Festival the success it is! Robbie has that MacDonald attitude of 'can do' and it's contagious. Did everyone see him sporting a Knights T-shirt? He was so proud and I want to make him our youngest 'honorary member' if that's OK with everyone! Jojo also has that attitude of "yes what do you need?" But watch out once you ask she'll get it and you'll somehow end up doing something else as well - great motivator! Bob, I don't know what it is you're doing but keep it up as it's more than working - beautiful family practicing our Catholic faith!!!

There are a lot of activities scheduled that will need some real help:

Memorial Mass; Family in need help; Christmas Tree Lot set-up and sales; Christmas Party; Lenten Fish Dinners, just to name a few.

Guys we are doing it and making an impact - one step at a time - we can make a difference. Remember Mary and Her Knights; Team beyond compare - what can we not accomplish and achieve with Mary on our side!

ological work, Mere Christianity, is an intelligent "defense" of the Christian faith and worth your time to read (or re-read).

Consider the Q & A: Why did God make you? God made me to know Him, love Him, and serve Him in this life, and be happy with Him in the next. I'm certain that you recall this from your basic catechism; but each of us is called to apply it in our daily lives. God created us to be integrated beings - we are souls that have physical bodies. Therefore, we are called to Know, Love and Serve God with our entire integrated being. We are called to grow and develop, spiritually as well as intellectually and physically. It is important to keep things in proper perspective for body and soul. Although mortal death separates our body and soul, we believe that this is only an intermediate state. At our Lord's Second Coming, we are assured that our souls will be reunited with our incorrupt, resurrected bodies. Hence, in the eternal age to come we will live forever in soul and body - in Glory with God or in Torment, without Him.

To help us develop spiritually, we should be following some rule of life. Some formal rules, such as the Redemptorists, include a daily meditation (mental prayer) - Sunday (The purpose of human life), Monday (Salvation), Tuesday (Mortal Sin), Wednesday (Death), Thursday (Judgment), Friday (Hell), and Saturday (Heaven). The main purpose is to instill a degree of discipline and order so that we can remain focused in our spiritual life, this will foster the Holy Spirit within each of us. In addition to Prayer, Good Works, and Almsgiving, we should read (Holy Scripture, Church Fathers, Saints, etc.) and contemplate the eschatological realities that we all will face - death, judgment, heaven and hell.

November is an excellent month for us to consider our ultimate destiny. The month begins with the "Solemnity of All Saints" in which we commemorate all who have attained the beatific vision. Then follows "All Souls' Day" in which we commemorate the faithful departed who have not yet been purified. We will also separately remember our Brother Knights who have fallen asleep in the Lord.

For your information, the Eastern Churches (both Catholic and Orthodox) celebrate five "Saturday of Souls" liturgies, during our Lenten cycle and the Saturday before Pentecost. Sunday of All Saints is celebrated on the first Sunday after Pentecost.

Glory to Jesus Christ! Glory to Him Forever!

In Brotherhood,

Bill

Deacon Candidate who helped Chilean miners describes rescue

Denver, Colo., Oct 16, 2010 / 07:50 am (EWTN News/CNA)

On Oct. 13, Greg Hall's prayers were answered. For more than two months of sleepless nights, the rock-drilling expert and deacon-in-training had been working to save the Chilean miners trapped in the San Jose Mine. The day after all 33 men emerged safely, Hall told EWTN News about the faith and hope he brought to a rescue operation many considered impossible.

Drillers Supply International, the company Greg Hall co-owns with his wife Angelica, has operated a Chilean branch for almost two decades, manufacturing parts for drilling hundreds or thousands of feet underground. When the Copiapó mine collapsed on Aug. 5, several of its customers initially worked "to find the miners, because nobody knew where they were."

But Hall's clients couldn't drill deep enough to find them. "So they called my company to bring out all the equipment -- which we make -- to help all five rigs be able to go down to 800 meters and start punching holes in the ground."

"We did that for 17 days, and we actually thought the miners were dead." Then, on Aug. 22, "(when) I was getting ready to go to Mass at 7 a.m., one of my guys called me and said: 'Greg, we think we hit a void, and we think we hear some banging on the drill pipe'. We pulled the pipe up, and in between the hammer and the drill pipe was a note ... saying 'All 33 of us are alive'."

Hall thought his involvement had ended, but it was just beginning. "About two weeks later the mining minister contacted us, and said that all the plans that they had were calling for bringing the miners out at the end of this year or maybe at the start of next year."

His crew said they could do the job in six weeks. "About 80 percent of the people laughed at us," Hall recounted, "but the other 20 percent were the ones who made the decision."

"The path we had to follow came perilously close to old mine shafts," Hall explained, while "the ground conditions and the size of the diameter we were going to be drilling" made for technical dangers. "The miners were trapped in the first place due to a landslide. There was a very, very real possibility that ... we could cause another slide."

Hall began to think of the trapped miners as his own family members. He urged his crew members to "think about those guys as if they're your son or your brother. Don't think about them as just some nameless miners. What would you do if that was your son down there?"

But when drilling began, his approach had to change. "During the actual drilling, I had to be very careful not to get too emotionally attached." In communicating with the miners, he "kept it very, very technical" and "wouldn't go to Camp Esperanza and see the families-- because I was petrified that I would make a decision based on emotion."

The 17 days of drilling took steel nerves, and strong faith. Hall highlighted "one particular time when we were stuck, and really, I had no more answers. I was standing on the drill rig, and there really wasn't anything, technically, we were able to do. So I just started praying."

The drill bit eventually loosened, and the team continued work on what Hall said was "the hardest job I've ever been on in my 25 years, by far." One driller, Jeff Ward, regularly worked 12 hour shifts, and one 24 hour shift near the end. "We had a great team of a lot of people that really worked tirelessly," Hall said, describing how they "went days without sleep."

Explaining how his faith continually "shaped this job," Hall recalled the day he left his parish in Houston, Texas to travel to the mine. "Our priest called me up on the altar ... we had probably over a thousand people. He told them that I was leaving right after Mass to go to Chile, and what we were going, and had them pray for us.

"And I can guarantee you, I could feel that prayer while I was on the drill site."

Experts and colleagues called the project "impossible"-- both before and after its completion. One told him, when the operation was over: "There is no way you could have drilled that hole. God drilled that hole!"

Hall, an acolyte at Christ the Redeemer Catholic Church who hopes to be ordained a deacon next February, said the rescue operation's success was not simply improbable, but miraculous. "I had a real experience of seeing God's work among his people," he reflected. "I know there are miracles. But you know what? Now everybody knows."

This Just in Before Press

Fatima Rosary

The Knights Bishop Verot Council hosted a prayer day Saturday October 16th beginning with the 8:30am Mass followed by a Rosary for Our Lady of Fatima (America Needs Fatima). This is a public display of our faith by saying the Rosary to honor our Blessed Mother. What a wonderful way to share and show your Catholic religious faith to others that will drive by. We gathered because Blessed Mary has said if you ask in her name Jesus will answer those prayers. We came to ask that our faith be strengthened and "The Word" Jesus, the Holy Spirit and God Our Father will help lead us to be strong in that faith that we may "Lead by example" and show the world what Catholics truly are; a group devoted to Mary and her Son Jesus. This event involved many Knights and their families as well as many HNJ parishioners. Numbers were between 75 - 100. What a great display of our devotion to Mary.

Alter Server Award

Bishop Verot Council 5845 was very happy to announce our 2nd quarter Alter Server Award went to Christian Teather. Christian is a fine example of what our youth serving God in our Catholic Tradition and we thank him for this example. Christian was awarded a Cross, this stone cross was quarried in the hills of Jerusalem..where Jesus walked. The cross is from the same stone that the Israelites used to construct the Temple of David, many ancient buildings and city walls. Both his mom and dad were at the meeting to accept this award with their son and Christian's mom actually put the Cross around his neck and Christian led our group in an Our Father and The Pledge of Allegiance. Thank you Christian! Jim Donnelly was the master of ceremony and has really turned this project into something our Council should be very proud of - Thanks Jim
